Discussion:

This meeting began with the Telecommunications team presenting their work. So far, they had successfully established the wifi connection and created the html file to compute the user and password credentials. They also referred that they couldn't do the captive point successfully, so they would continue trying and look to alternative plans in case all attempts failed.

On the second part of the meeting, the Automation Department started their presentations. The first team presented the circuit design, explaining every component specification and connection between each other. The second team presented the control system of the lamp, showing what libraries are to be used, some examples of functions and code and the state machines to implement the modes of the lamp, and problems and uncontrollable variables that the team may find.
